

Are you transitioning out of first responder employment?

Transition & Employment Program

Supporting your transition into post-service life

Plan your next move

Fortem's Transition & Employment Program supports first responders who are looking for post-service career and lifestyle opportunities. Together, we plan the pathway that's right for you.

Work with our partners to create opportunities

We work with some of Australia's best organisations (Pledge Partners), who are committed to creating job, training, volunteer and start-up opportunities for first responders and their family members.

One-on-one employment support

We can help you secure your next role, by supporting you with interview coaching, resume and job application assistance, networking and mentoring, and ongoing employment support.

Transition to your new lifestyle

Talk to us about your post-service lifestyle, including assistance with transition into retirement, or referrals to other services that can help ensure your post-service life holds meaning, challenge, and enjoyment.

Support your family

Fortem will also support your family through this transition. Our wellbeing activities, clinical services, and the Transition & Employment Program are all on offer to those closest to you. This is part of our mission to boost the mental fitness and wellbeing of first responders and their families.

The Transition & Employment Program that's tailored to your needs

We understand that members of the first responder community are effective and committed leaders, team members, and problem solvers. First responders have a variety of transferable skills and a broad range of interests.

Fortem's Transition & Employment Program is shaped around your background and goals. You can choose the areas in which you would like our assistance, and create your own pathway with the support of the Fortem team.

We invite you to work with us to design your own transition pathway.

Meet our Transition & Employment Team

Our Transition Case Managers have lived experience in various first responder agencies. They have all travelled the career transition path, and can relate to the challenges and emotions you might be experiencing.

Our team hold specialist training and skills to support transitioning first responders and their families.

Our team is committed to working side-by-side with you to achieve a successful transition from your current service to your next opportunity.

“

Transition and change is a very personal process. While it can raise many questions and you may feel uncertain, it can also be very energising as you explore and focus on the future and the opportunities that are available.

- Transition Case Manager, Fortem Australia

”

Let's chat about how we can support you

Chat with one of our experienced Transition Case Managers, who can assist your move into your post-service career and lifestyle.

Initial contact with our team can be made via your agency or self-referral.

We look forward to working with you.

✉ transition@fortemaustralia.org.au

☎ 1300 33 95 94

fortemaustralia.org.au

We also have an app which can be accessed from our website. Select Community Portal Access under What we do in the navigation at the top of the page.